Graffiato Planters
Pages 110-111

Introduction & General Terms

We've been in the flower pot business for a long time, producing our first planter from raw Missouri clay shortly after the end of World War II.

Our goal after 70 years remains the same as it was on the day we first fired our kilns - to help you, our customer, grow your pottery profits.

We are convinced that pottery can be a year-round profit center for you, and to that end, we have dedicated the first portion of this catalog to highlighting pots which are perfectly suited for each of seven different seasons of the year.

We offer several different programs which allow you to save on your pottery buy from us, enabling you to offer our pots to your customers at competitive prices while retaining your full margins:

- Our innovative "4 x 5" open-stock discount, which offers a 5% discount when you order 4 or more of an item, and an additional 5% if your order includes at least 5 of these 4-pot groups.
- A wide range of per-configured pallet assortments, each offering everyday discounts. Several of these collections are included in this catalog on pages 81-93, and many others may be ordered through your Ceramo sales rep or via our web site.
- An industry-leading Early Order Program.
- Full-container direct-import programs from many of our top manufacturing partners.

We welcome you to our catalog, and we look forward to playing a role in growing your pottery profits throughout this coming year!

*We like to say that "all of our cast-iron urns are guaranteed to rust". Each pot is treated with an anti-rust coating before shipping, but this will wear off over time. If you would like to restore your urn to a "like new" finish, we suggest regularly using Rust-oleum® or a similar product.

A Few Notes About our Basalt Clay: One of the newer additions to our German pottery collection is a dark clay blend that we call "Basalt", after the mineral that gives the clay its unique dark, marbled finish. This material offers all of the benefits of our red clay, while adding an upscale element to the overall look of the pots. The Basalt line has proved itself in retail settings for the past several years, and is a logical extension of any red clay program.

For over 70 years, Ceramo has built a reputation as a leader in the red clay marketplace, beginning as a manufacturer and growing into a leading US importer of the world's greatest red clay pots. Over the decades we've built a track record as an extraordinarily reliable vendor to independent garden centers, with a proven history of on-time deliveries, minimal back-orders, and detailed QC protocols. We have a deep partnership with Spang, the German manufacturer of these amazing clay planters, in which we host their bonded warehouse at our facility, allowing us to carry an inventory depth sufficient to meet most urgent product demands in a timely fashion.

- We carry millions of dollars worth of Spang products in our on-hand inventory and in Spang's bonded warehouse at our facility.
- Over the past 5 years, our boxed clay programs have an average fill rate of over 99%
- The fully automated Spang production lines result in an incredible consistent product - the sizes are always the same from batch to batch. This reduces breakage, both during transit and on retail shelves, as mis-matched pots tend to wear unevenly and break.
- Spang's innovation and product development are at the top of the industry. This results in practical ideas such as the banding around the rims of larger pots (See below for details), and design-driven introductions which ensure that your clay department is on-trend and ready to appeal to your customers.
- We also carry a range of Italian terra cotta which offers a more traditional look and appeal, and a handful of selected items from the USA.
- Spang also produces our line of powder-coated terra cotta pots. This amazing process produces pots with rich, uniform colors at price points far more attractive than comparably-sized glazed pots. Our powder-coated collection may be found on pages 4-5, 74-75, 78, 81, & 88-89.

- Direct-import programs of Spang pots may be quoted on request.
- Simply put, we are capable of servicing the red clay needs of accounts ranging in size from large chains to small seasonal fruit stands and everything in between.

A Few Notes About Our Reinforced Rims:

Many of our larger terra cotta pots (6" diameter and larger) feature a reinforced rim unlike anything else found in the market. These rims are specifically engineered to enhance both the quality and the durability of these pots.

What do these rims do?

- The banded portion of the rim helps to keep the pots perfectly round during the production and firing processes - this structural integrity allows the pots to stack correctly, keeping them from scraping and scratching each other during transit, resulting in beautiful pots generating profits on your shelves.
- The thicker rims also help to ensure that the weight of the stacked pots is distributed evenly during transit. This reduces breakage claims and shrinkage across the category.
- The rolled rim found on the largest pots is designed to help keep the most vulnerable part of the pot (the rim) from chipping and cracking, as it both deflects and distributes the force from various impacts.
